Note:

Financial assistance as defined by Chapter 17-1400 of the Philadelphia Code includes "any grant, loan, tax incentive, bond financing subsidy for land purchase or otherwise, or other form of assistance that is realized by or approved to a Person in the amount of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) or more through the authority or approval of the City..." Types of assistance may include, but are not limited to, "Tax Increment Financing (TIF) aid, industrial development bonds, use of the power of eminent domain, Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) aid or loans, airport revenue bonds, and Enterprise Zone or similar economic development zone designations..."

The instances of financial assistance described above were made during the reportable quarter. The amounts provided above include, in the cases of loans or bonds, the total amount of the loan or bond, and the associated financial assistance derived from the deal over $50,000. These calculations are based upon the Net Present Value of the loan or bond over the life of the deal as it compares to what the recipient would have received in the market for the same deal. In the case of leases, the financial assistance represent a comparison between the fair market value of a property and the cost of the lease the entity received from the City. For all housing development assistance listed, the total amount of the deal represents the total amount of the housing development project with the amount of the financial assistance representing the housing developer fees paid to those organizations involved in the development project.

Financial assistance amounts denoted as "Greater than $50,000" reflect situations where it was difficult to estimate the real value of financial assistance but a determination was made that the value of financial assistance did exceed the $50,000 threshold.

* The rent represented in this report was upheld as part of a recent settlement between the City of Philadelphia and Boy Scouts of America and meets the threshold for financial assistance.

Note:

Financial assistance as defined by Chapter 17-1400 of the Philadelphia Code includes "any grant, loan, tax incentive, bond financing subsidy for land purchase or otherwise, or other form of assistance that is realized by or approved to a Person in the amount of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) or more through the authority or approval of the City..." Types of assistance may include, but are not limited to, "Tax Increment Financing (TIF) aid, industrial development bonds, use of the power of eminent domain, Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) aid or loans, airport revenue bonds, and Enterprise Zone or similar economic development zone designations..."

The instances of financial assistance described above were made during the reportable quarter. The amounts provided above include, in the cases of loans or bonds, the total amount of the loan or bond, and the associated financial assistance derived from the deal over $50,000. These calculations are based upon the Net Present Value of the loan or bond over the life of the deal as it compares to what the recipient would have received in the market for the same deal. In the case of leases, the financial assistance represent a comparison between the fair market value of a property and the cost of the lease the entity received from the City. For all housing development assistance listed, the total amount of the deal represents the total amount of the housing development project with the amount of the financial assistance representing the housing developer fees paid to those organizations involved in the development project.

Financial assistance amounts denoted as "Greater than $50,000" reflect situations where it was difficult to estimate the real value of financial assistance but a determination was made that the value of financial assistance did exceed the $50,000 threshold.

Note:

Financial assistance as defined by Chapter 17-1400 of the Philadelphia Code includes "any grant, loan, tax incentive, bond financing subsidy for land purchase or otherwise, or other form of assistance that is realized by or approved to a Person in the amount of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) or more through the authority or approval of the City.. Types of assistance may include, but are not limited to, "Tax Increment Financing (TIF) aid, industrial development bonds, use of the power of eminent domain, Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) aid or loans, airport revenue bonds, and Enterprise Zone or similar economic development zone designations..."

The instances of financial assistance described above were made during the reportable quarter. The amounts provided above include, in the cases of loans or bonds, the total amount of the loan or bond, and the associated financial assistance derived from the deal over $50,000. These calculations are based upon the Net Present Value of the loan or bond over the life of the deal as it compares to what the recipient would have received in the market for the same deal. In the case of leases, the financial assistance represent a comparison between the fair market value of a property and the cost of the lease the entity received from the City. For all housing development assistance listed, the total amount of the deal represents the total amount of the housing development project with the amount of the financial assistance representing the housing developer fees paid to those organizations involved in the development project.

Financial assistance amounts denoted as "Greater than $50,000" reflect situations where it was difficult to estimate the real value of financial assistance but a determination was made that the value of financial assistance did exceed the $50,000 threshold

* These instances of financial assistance were determined to meet the criteria for financial assistance after the quarter in which the assistance was originally disbursed and, as such, are reported here.

Note:

Financial assistance as defined by Chapter 17-1400 of the Philadelphia Code includes "any grant, loan, tax incentive, bond financing subsidy for land purchase or otherwise, or other form of assistance that is realized by or approved to a Person in the amount of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) or more through the authority or approval of the City..." Types of assistance may include, but are not limited to, "Tax Increment Financing (TIF) aid, industrial development bonds, use of the power of eminent domain, Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) aid or loans, airport revenue bonds, and Enterprise Zone or similar economic development zone designations..."

The instances of financial assistance described above were made during the reportable quarter. The amounts provided above include, in the cases of loans or bonds, the total amount of the loan or bond, and the associated financial assistance derived from the deal over $50,000. These calculations are based upon the Net Present Value of the loan or bond over the life of the deal as it compares to what the recipient would have received in the market for the same deal. In the case of leases, the financial assistance represent a comparison between the fair market value of a property and the cost of the lease the entity received from the City. For all housing development assistance listed, the total amount of the deal represents the total amount of the housing development project with the amount of the financial assistance representing the housing developer fees paid to those organizations involved in the development project.

Financial assistance amounts denoted as "Greater than $50,000" reflect situations where it was difficult to estimate the real value of financial assistance but a determination was made that the value of financial assistance did exceed the $50,000 threshold.

* These instances of financial assistance were determined to meet the criteria for financial assistance after the quarter in which the assistance was originally disbursed and, as such, are reported here.

Note:

Financial assistance as defined by Chapter 17-1400 of the Philadelphia Code includes "any grant, loan, tax incentive, bond financing subsidy for land purchase or otherwise, or other form of assistance that is realized by or approved to a Person in the amount of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) or more through the authority or approval of the City..." Types of assistance may include, but are not limited to, "Tax Increment Financing (TIF) aid, industrial development bonds, use of the power of eminent domain, Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) aid or loans, airport revenue bonds, and Enterprise Zone or similar economic development zone designations..."

The instances of financial assistance described above were made during the reportable quarter. The amounts provided above include, in the cases of loans or bonds, the total amount of the loan or bond, and the associated financial assistance derived from the deal over $50,000. These calculations are based upon the Net Present Value of the loan or bond over the life of the deal as it compares to what the recipient would have received in the market for the same deal. In the case of leases, the financial assistance represent a comparison between the fair market value of a property and the cost of the lease the entity received from the City. For all housing development assistance listed, the total amount of the deal represents the total amount of the housing development project with the amount of the financial assistance representing the housing developer fees paid to those organizations involved in the development project.

Financial assistance amounts denoted as "Greater than $50,000" reflect situations where it was difficult to estimate the real value of financial assistance but a determination was made that the value of financial assistance did exceed the $50,000 threshold.

Note:

Financial assistance as defined by Chapter 17-1400 of the Philadelphia Code includes "any grant, loan, tax incentive, bond financing subsidy for land purchase or otherwise, or other form of assistance that is realized by or approved to a Person in the amount of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) or more through the authority or approval of the City..." Types of assistance may include, but are not limited to, "Tax Increment Financing (TIF) aid, industrial development bonds, use of the power of eminent domain, Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) aid or loans, airport revenue bonds, and Enterprise Zone or similar economic development zone designations..."

The instances of financial assistance described above were made during the reportable quarter. The amounts provided above include, in the cases of loans or bonds, the total amount of the loan or bond, and the associated financial assistance derived from the deal over $50,000. These calculations are based upon the Net Present Value of the loan or bond over the life of the deal as it compares to what the recipient would have received in the market for the same deal. In the case of leases, the financial assistance represent a comparison between the fair market value of a property and the cost of the lease the entity received from the City. For all housing development assistance listed, the total amount of the deal represents the total amount of the housing development project with the amount of the financial assistance representing the housing developer fees paid to those organizations involved in the development project.

Financial assistance amounts denoted as "Greater than $50,000" reflect situations where it was difficult to estimate the real value of financial assistance but a determination was made that the value of financial assistance did exceed the $50,000 threshold.

Note:

Financial assistance as defined by Chapter 17-1400 of the Philadelphia Code includes "any grant, loan, tax incentive, bond financing subsidy for land purchase or otherwise, or other form of assistance that is realized by or approved to a Person in the amount of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) or more through the authority or approval of the City..." Types of assistance may include, but are not limited to, "Tax Increment Financing (TIF) aid, industrial development bonds, use of the power of eminent domain, Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) aid or loans, airport revenue bonds, and Enterprise Zone or similar economic development zone designations..."

The instances of financial assistance described above were made during the reportable quarter. The amounts provided above include, in the cases of loans or bonds, the total amount of the loan or bond, and the associated financial assistance derived from the deal over $50,000. These calculations are based upon the Net Present Value of the loan or bond over the life of the deal as it compares to what the recipient would have received in the market for the same deal. In the case of leases, the financial assistance represent a comparison between the fair market value of a property and the cost of the lease the entity received from the City. For all housing development assistance listed, the total amount of the deal represents the total amount of the housing development project with the amount of the financial assistance representing the housing developer fees paid to those organizations involved in the development project.

Financial assistance amounts denoted as "Greater than $50,000" reflect situations where it was difficult to estimate the real value of financial assistance but a determination was made that the value of financial assistance did exceed the $50,000 threshold.

Note:

Financial assistance as defined by Chapter 17-1400 of the Philadelphia Code includes "any grant, loan, tax incentive, bond financing subsidy for land purchase or otherwise, or other form of assistance that is realized by or approved to a Person in the amount of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) or more through the authority or approval of the City..." Types of assistance may include, but are not limited to, "Tax Increment Financing (TIF) aid, industrial development bonds, use of the power of eminent domain, Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) aid or loans, airport revenue bonds, and Enterprise Zone or similar economic development zone designations..."

The instances of financial assistance described above were made during the reportable quarter. The amounts provided above include, in the cases of loans or bonds, the total amount of the loan or bond, and the associated financial assistance derived from the deal over $50,000. These calculations are based upon the Net Present Value of the loan or bond over the life of the deal as it compares to what the recipient would have received in the market for the same deal. In the case of leases, the financial assistance represent a comparison between the fair market value of a property and the cost of the lease the entity received from the City. For all housing development assistance listed, the total amount of the deal represents the total amount of the housing development project with the amount of the financial assistance representing the housing developer fees paid to those organizations involved in the development project.

Financial assistance amounts denoted as "Greater than $50,000" reflect situations where it was difficult to estimate the real value of financial assistance but a determination was made that the value of financial assistance did exceed the $50,000 threshold.
